A healthy man is a king in his own right; and unhealthy man is an unhappy slave. Bardsley Blood Bitters builds up sound health—keeps you well.

"Suffered day and night the torment of itching piles. Nothing helped me until I used Doan's Ointment. It cured me permanently."—Hon. John R. Garrett, Mayor, Girard, Ala.

Harsh physics react, weaken the bowels, cause chronic constipation. Doan's Regulate operate easy, tone the stomach, cure constipation, 25c. Ask your druggist for them.

Accidents will happen, but the best regulated families keep Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil for such emergencies. It subdues the pain and heals the hurts.

Sees Mother Grow Young.
"It would be hard to overstate the wonderful change in my mother since she began to use Electric Bitters," writes Mrs. W. L. Gilpatrick of Danforth, Me. "Although past 70 she seems really to be growing young again. She suffered untold misery from dyspepsia for 20 years. At last she could neither eat, drink nor sleep. Doctors gave her up and all remedies failed till Electric Bitters worked such wonders for her health." They invigorate all vital organs, cure liver and kidney troubles, induce sleep, impart strength and appetite. Only 50c at the Red Cross Pharmacy.

HOW HE LOST OUT.
The Mistake of an Ex-Punster and His Rich Aunt.

He was one of those comic paper-funny chaps, not because he was lost to all sense of shame, but because he needed the money.

"No," he said in reply to the query of an acquaintance, "I never make puns any more. The last one I got off cost me a cool $50,000."

"How was that?" queried the other. "Shortly after my marriage," said the ex-punster, "a couple of my aunts, who were very fat, not very fair and considerable over forty, came to visit as for a few days—so I learned afterward. Well, my wife met me at the door that evening upon my return home and put me wise to their presence, so I hid for the pastor and, making a bow that would have turned Chesterfield pea green with envy, I unhesitatingly it afforded me great pleasure to make my obeisance to my these aunts. That settled it. They were passengers on the first homeward bound train."

"And the $50,000?" queried the one man audience.

"That's where the briny flow is turned on," rejoined the humorous party. "A year later they got mixed up in an earthquake, and when their wives were dead it was found that I, their only living relative, had been disinherited, and the $50,000 went to endow a home for friendless cats."—Chicago News.

The Same, but Different.
Most lawyers are a knee-deep delight trying to confuse medical experts in the witness box in murder trials, and often they get paid back in their own coin. A case is recalled where the lawyer, after exercising all his tangling tactics without effect, looked quizzically at the doctor who was testifying and said:

"You will admit that doctors sometimes make mistakes, won't you?"

"Oh, yes, the same as lawyers," was the cool reply.

"And doctors' mistakes are buried six feet under ground," was the lawyer's triumphant reply.

"Yes," he replied, "and lawyers' mistakes often swing in the air."—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Severe Ordeal.
"So you want a position as a ticket salesman during this busy season?" said the railway man.

"Yes," answered the young man.

"What qualifications do you think you possess?"

"I'm sure I could be patient, helpful and obliging."

"Young man, it's plain you have had no experience with a crowd of impatient excursionists. I'd like to give you work, but it would be a shame to spur a good disposition."—Washington Star.

Caught Her.
"I am looking for something nice for a young man," said the young and pretty shopper.

"Why don't you look in the mirror?" asked the glib clerk.

And she was so flustered that he managed to sell her four different things that she did not want before she knew what she was doing.

When Youth Wanes.
Old age has many definitions, and middle age more. But you may take it that you are not really an old man so long as you take an interest in your personal appearance. There is not a nurse who does not know the sign of convalescence—when the patient wants to be shaved and put a good appearance in this world. And so long as the man of sixty can take an interest in the latest tie—and tie he is preserving his youth.—London Chronicle.

A Bad Hole to Get Into.
A gentleman was going round a strange golf course with a local caddy, and after playing part of the way he pointed to a rather high wall and inquired, "Is there a hole over there?"

"Yes, sir," replied the caddy solemnly; "there's the cemetery over there. Don't put yourself into a hole there if you can help it."—London Scrip.

The Dogs of Turkey.
In the matter of kindness to animals it is said that the Turk cannot be surpassed. Thus at Stamboul the wandering dogs are treated with great gentleness, and when puppies come into the world they are lodged with their mother at the side of the street in improvised kennels made out of old boxes lined with straw and bits of carpet. And frequently when a young Turk happens to be flush of money he goes to the nearest baker's shop and buys a quantity of bread, which he distributes among the dogs of the quarter, who testify their gratitude by jumping up at him with muddy paws and sniffing nozzles.

LOVE AND DEAFNESS, HINTS FOR FARMERS

By F. A. MITCHEL.
[Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.]

Fergus MacAllister, a Scotch Presbyterian minister, having lost the power of speaking distinctly, became a burden on his congregation. In order to get rid of him they suggested that he go to a more salubrious climate and build up another church.

There were many English speaking tourists in southern Italy, and the pastor was packed off to Naples, where, instead of succeeding in establishing a church, he supported himself and his family by entertaining said tourists in what is called in Europe a pension, in America a boarding house.

There came to Mr. MacAllister's pension an American party consisting of Mr. Blodson, an old gentleman deaf as a post; Mrs. Barker, a widow, deaf as Mr. Blodson, and Alice Barker, her daughter, aged twenty-five, a confirmed globe trotter. Miss Barker was especially anxious that her mother, whom she found it inconvenient to drag about with her, should in some way be soothed. The Barkers had met Mr. Blodson in Paris, and they had all traveled together to Naples. On the way Miss Barker had conceived the idea of marrying her mother to Mr. Blodson, though how the two were to get on together, both suffering from the same physical defect, she did not consider.

The beginning of the party's stay with the MacAllisters was not auspicious. Mr. MacAllister, at dinner, after his guests had been seated, bent his head and began to speak in a low tone.

"What's that?" asked Blodson.

"The host paused, somewhat disconcerted, then, without noticing the interruption, began again.

"Speak louder, I'm hard of hearing," persisted Blodson.

The Scotchman raised his head and spoke as loud as his impaired voice would admit. But it was
